Alaska Grown Source Book featuring 230 farms is now available

(Palmer, AK) – The 2012-2013 edition of the Alaska Grown Source Book is now available in print and digital formats. The 96-page booklet includes detailed contact information for 230 farms from across the state and highlights the products they carry. The new Source Book also includes information about farmers markets, Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) and U-Pick farms located throughout the state, as well as listings for agriculture-related businesses, government agencies and service providers. This quick reference will help guide you to the closest, freshest produce in Alaska.

Find the Source Book online at <http://dnr.alaska.gov/ag/sourcebook>. Select by Region and search for specific items quickly or download the entire Source Book to your desktop. For a hard copy, please contact Rebecca Jeffers at 907-745-7200.
