Tulsequah Chief Project – Air Cushion Barging Proposal

PUBLIC MEETING RESCHEDULED

The Public Meeting to discuss the proposed Tulsequah Chief project is being postponed from January 24th until February 4th. The meeting has been rescheduled to allow additional agency and public review of "issue tracking documents" and supplemental information, all of which will be released by Redfern Resources by the week of January 21st, and to ensure that key milestones are aligned between the State of Alaska and British Columbia review processes.

The comment period now closes at 5pm AST Thursday February 21, 2008

The comment period for both the Land Use Permit and the Coastal Consistency Review is extended. Comments regarding the coastal consistency review must identify the relevant enforceable policy and explain how the project is not consistent with that policy. Comments must be received in writing.
