Fairbanks Area Timber Sale Auction Scheduled for December

(Fairbanks, AK) – The Division of Forestry & Fire Protection will hold a timber sale auction in Fairbanks at 10am on Friday, Dec. 20, 2024. The auction will take place at the division’s Fairbanks office located at 3700 Airport Way.

The auction offers eight timber sales totaling 317 acres, featuring a mix of spruce sawlogs and fuelwood. Sales will be conducted through a sealed auction bid process. Prospective bidders can find an auction prospectus, including detailed bid procedures and information on each sale, on the division’s website: <https://forestry.alaska.gov/timber/fairbanks>.

“This sale represents DNR’s commitment to managing Alaska’s forests for sustainability and multiple uses,” said Fairbanks Area Forester Kevin Breitenbach, “By offering these timber resources, we aim to support local industries and Alaskans while maintaining the long-term health of our forests.”

The Division has also issued three final Best Interest Findings and five Forest Land Use Plans within the Fairbanks and Delta areas. These documents, which incorporate public comments and agency reviews, are available at <https://forestry.alaska.gov/timber/fairbanks>

For further information on the auction, the public may contact Andrew Allaby at the Fairbanks-Delta Area Forestry office:
