Community Impact

Grant Success Story: City of Kodiak Historic Preservation

In 2023, the City of Kodiak became Alaska's newest Certified Local Government (CLG) – a milestone that marked the beginning of a transformative journey into historic preservation. With support from a National Park Service CLG grant, Kodiak launched its first-ever Historic Preservation Plan, laying a strong foundation for protecting and celebrating the community's rich cultural heritage. It identifies preservation goals, outlines strategies for nominating properties to the National Register of Historic Places, and emphasizes the importance of public education and engagement. Recognizing that historic places matter deeply to residents across Kodiak Island, the plan also includes the creation of a resource inventory compatible with the Alaska Heritage Resources Survey (AHRS), ensuring long-term stewardship and accessibility. The project was aligned with the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Preservation Planning, ensuring a thoughtful and nationally recognized approach to identifying, evaluating, and treating historic properties. Public involvement was a major part of the planning process, done through a dedicated planning website, in-person workshops, online surveys, and maintained open lines of community with the community. This inclusive approach ensured that the plan reflected local values and priorities. The Historic Preservation Commission played a key leadership role, culminating in a formal recommendation to the City Council, which unanimously approved the plan on September 25, 2022. Through this process, Kodiak established a clear historic context, creating a framework that highlights the significance of its historic buildings, archaeological sites, and cultural landscapes. The final plan sets actionable goals that will guide future preservation efforts, ensuring that Kodiak's unique heritage is honored, protected, and integrated into the city's growth and development. With this plan in place, Kodiak has taken a bold step toward shaping a future that respects and celebrates its past.

Federal Legislation

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and U.S. Department of the Army published a joint notice in the Federal Register regarding a proposed rule to revise regulations defining the scope of water federally covered under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended, also known as the Clean Water Act, in light of the U.S. Supreme Court's 2023 decision in Sackett v. Environmental Protection Agency. This proposed rule is intended to clarify the definition of "waters of the United States" and provide greater regulatory certainty for agencies. More information can be found here: Federal Register :: Updated Definition of "Waters of the United States"

On Wednesday, December 12, the National Trust for Historic Preservation filed a lawsuit in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia seeking a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction to immediately halt construction on the proposed White House ballroom: National Trust for Historic Preservation Files Suit to Immediately Stop White House Ballroom Construction | National Trust for Historic Preservation.

The first hearing was held on Tuesday, December 16: NATIONAL TRUST FOR HISTORIC PRESERVATION IN THE UNITED STATES v. NATIONAL PARK SERVICE, 1:25-cv-04316 – CourtListener.com.

A separate suit involving the Eisenhower Executive Office Building (EEOB) was also filed on Wednesday, December 12. This suit was also filed against the General Services Administration GSA in the U.S. District Court of DC concerning potential impacts to the EEOB and the GSA has agreed to pause all planning activities until the Court holds a hearing early next year: Protecting the EEOB - Cultural Heritage Partners

Beyond these regulatory proposals and lawsuits, Congress is continuing their work on FY26 congressional appropriations ahead of the January 30th, 2026 deadline. Currently, the Senate Interior-Environment appropriations bill is eyed to be bundled into a "minibus" bill along with the Labor-HHS, Defense, Transportation-HUD, and Commerce-Justice-Science appropriations bills. Senator

Lee, the chair of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, has also proposed an amendment for inclusion, seeking to strike section 130. More information about the current Senate Interior-Environment appropriations bill draft and section 130 can be found here: Congressional Record | Congress.gov | Library of Congress.
